WHY HTML & BOOTSTRAP?

Why we're exporting HTML in the first place....It's an open standard, so it's not gonna taken away...by any one, single company....It's the language of the web, ... so it's already viewable on every modern browser....It's text-based, so it's easy to open, easy to edit, ...it's not really hiding much from you....In addition to HTML being universal at its core, ...it's also an easy format to port...into other formats such as mobile apps...

Bootstrap is an open-source JavaScript framework developed by the team at Twitter. It is a combination of HTML, CSS, and JavaScript code designed to help build user interface components. Bootstrap was also programmed to support both HTML5 and CSS3.

Also it is called Front-end-framework.
